ADDITIONAL STATEMENTS

THE WARRIOR TRADITION CONTINUES

• Mr. KEMPTHORNE. Mr. President, I rise today to recognize the accomplishments of a group of young men from my home State of Idaho. Lewis-Clark State College's baseball team won a record ninth National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics World Series title last Friday, beating St. Ambrose University of Iowa in the championship game, 9-0.

The ninth title in the past 13 years continues a tradition at Lewis-Clark State under head coach Ed Cheff. Under Coach Cheff, the Warriors have won more NAIA World Series games and played in more national championships than any other school. They won six straight titles between 1987 and 1992.

Cheff's latest team finished the 1996 season with an outstanding record of 53 wins and only 11 losses, and they were a perfect 5-0 in the double-elimination tournament. In the title game, played appropriately enough at Lewis and Clark Park in Sioux City, IO, Freshman Matt Randel pitched a 4-hitter while striking out 10 and not walking a batter. Such a performance fit his season, as he finished the year with an 8-0 pitching mark. Pitching was the key to the Warriors' title, as the staff set a record for the lowest earned run average in tournament history, allowing less than a run a game.

The Warrior bats came alive in the title game, as LCSC banded out 18 hits, including 3 each by Jose Rijo-Berger, Art Baeza, and Troy Silva. Trent Lies hit a solo home run.

The Warriors started the season ranked No. 1 in the NAIA, and finished with a season-high 15-game winning streak, including the 5 games in the tournament. In its 17 appearances in the national championships, Lewis-Clark State has won an incredible 72 games, while losing only 20.

This season, Coach Cheff posted his 1,000th win at LCSC, making him only the third NAIA coach to ever reach that milestone. He has been named national coach of the year four times and was honored as NAIA Coach of the Decade for the 1980's. The record on the field speaks volumes about Ed Cheff. But off the field his accomplishments are just as remarkable.

LCSC has produced 8 NAIA Academic All-Americans and has placed 34 players on All-American teams. And Ed Cheff and his Warriors have, over the years, become a rallying point for the community of Lewiston. Thousands of fans have attended games at Harris Field, and they have established a network of community support unrivaled at any level.

Mr. President, I know the U.S. Senate joins me and all of Idaho in congratulating Ed Cheff and the baseball players at Lewis-Clark State College for continuing their outstanding winning tradition with this year's NAIA World Series title.●

TRIBUTE TO WILLIAM BRUCE JOHNSON

• Mr. BUMPERS. Mr. President, I rise today to pay tribute to a fellow Arkansan, William Bruce Johnson. Bruce is the president of White River Hardwoods and Woodworks, Inc., in Fayetteville, AR. Because of his outstanding contribution to the business community, Bruce has been selected by the U.S. Small Business Administration as the 1996 Arkansas Small Business Person of the Year. I am convinced that this is an honor richly deserved.

Bruce Johnson and his wife Joan have pioneered new and innovative approaches to their business, and in the process, propelled White River Hardwoods into a nationally known company. In 1979, Bruce's company mainly sold premium hardwood lumber, but with an entrepreneurial spirit, Bruce entered the finishing market with a full line of architectural moldings and interior hardwood products. He and his wife proudly built a business that has become synonymous with superior quality and customer satisfaction. Incidentally, their children play a very active role as well, making White River Hardwoods truly a family-owned small business.

Mr. President, I have said many times that small business is the backbone of this country, and White River is the perfect example of that statement. As many of you here know, owning your own business gives new meaning to full-time employment. That kind of dedication is precisely the reason why I think SBA is such a vital program to this country. Bruce got his first SBA loan in 1983 and then his second in 1992. Because of the availability of those SBA loans, White River Hardwoods expanded warehouse space, purchased equipment, hired new employees, and bettered the small business community—not only for Arkansas, but for the whole country. Outside of their Fayetteville base, White River operates a combination showroom and warehouse in Springfield, MO. They are partnered with 28 independent manufacturing representatives across the United States, and each day they effect a network of 32 stocking distributors and 314 dealers. The company's sales in 1995 reached nearly $5.5 million, which is no insignificant contribution to our economy.

We need more people like Bruce and Joan Johnson in this country. Together they work hard every day along side their children to ensure the futures of their employees and the community around them. Mr. President, I hope you will join me in congratulating William Bruce Johnson as the 1996 Arkansas Small Business Person of the Year.●
